

2018 Container Volumes Reach an All-Time, Record-Breaking High

Here at the Port of Kobe, although we had sustained damage to a portion of our port facilities caused by the Typhoon Jebi (Typhoon No. 21), which occurred in September of last year, thanks to the cooperation with private companies, we were able to swiftly recover from the disaster.

As a result, the number of containers that we handled during 2018 exceeded that of 2017, and we were able to post an all-time, record-breaking result of 2.94 million TEU.

We would like to express our gratitude for the cooperation provided by companies concerned all over the world.

We look forward to your continued usage of the Port of Kobe.

Transition in container volumes at the Port of Kobe

